manico

Manico AB was founded in 2012 by a teacher, a salesman and an entrepreneur. We all believe in the power of interactive communication, which we want to make affordable and accessible to a wider market.

The Manico Approach

Manico AB designs, develops, manufactures and markets products with built in interactive touch technology. Our product range covers interactive boards, screens and tables. Enhanced presentation software is included with every Manico Touchscreen.

A Giant Touchpad

Manico products are easy to use due to its functional similarity with Windows, Android, standard smartphones and touchpads.

The frame has a very slim and sturdy design and supplies an outstanding touch technology, offering excellent touch detection, recognition and command capacity.

Manico Studio is a pedagogical software and is included free of charge with all Manico Touchscreens.

Schools and Companies

Manico products are perfect for schools and companies that want to work in a unique and creative way.

Education

There are many education facilities, and we know that Manico products can greatly enhance educator's ability to communicate knowledge to students in an efficient, stimulating and effective way.

With Manico products, classrooms are converted into effective workshops with the best picture quality and interactive touch technology available, enabling maximum learning capabilities and experiences.

Meetings

The business environment is the fastest growing market for interactive products. There are many meeting rooms, where interactive products can stimulate and add efficiency to existing communications skills, to secure even more interesting, reliable and effective results.

Where to See and Buy

Manico AB has a large number of installations in Sweden and Norway, and showrooms are available in Norrköping and Stockholm, where products can be viewed.

Manico products are sold through dealers and partners. Together we display our products at exhibitions and customer events, demonstrating many different system configurations and applications.

Competitive Pricing

Manico AB has a short supply chain. We manufacture our own products, and manage European logistics and support from our own hub in Sweden, securing maximum control and quality, as well as low costs and low pricing.

Easy Installation

Connect any Manico Interactive product to any Windows, Linux or Android unit, for immediate and high quality picture and interactive performance, without any need for any installations or calibrations.

Install Manico Studio for unlimited and free use of our pedagogic and user-friendly interactive, drawing and presentation software. Install driver for use on MAC OS.

Customer Satisfaction

Skolan Bergius

Skolan Bergius is a unique school with a Principle and staff of teachers who think out of the box, and are early adopters of new technology.

"Manico Touchscreens have become an important part of our everyday learning environment and teaching process, and have replaced all of our whiteboards, notepads, projectors, projection screens etc. All classrooms have a Manico Touchscreen, which are used every day, by both teachers and students".

"Manico screens have a very bright, clear and high resolution picture, which can be seen from far away. The screens look good, and do not generate any noise or heat at all".

"Manico screens run just as well with 3rd party, proprietary or standard of the shelf software, as with its own software".

Magnus Lindqvist, Head of IT at Bergius Skolan Sigtuna Kommun.

Aditro

Aditro AB is a major national company with many offices throughout Scandinavia. Aditro uses Manico Touchscreens together with Microsoft Lync, as a unique Video Conferencing solution. This solution is efficient and affordable, utilizing only a simple PC with Lync, a Manico Touchscreen and the Internet. The whole communication procedure is performed with one Manico Touchscreen, as a single interface between the user and the communication technology.

Finspångs kommun

Finspång Kommun is a city which during 2014 has upgraded major parts of its educational facilities and IS/IT infrastructure. Manico is, honored to be the exclusive supplier of all interactive boards and screens for this upgrade, and are proud to have implemented this successful upgrade together with different dealers, depending on area of expertise and/or accessibility required per facility. Manico has also supplied Finspång schools and teachers with product and application training.

Fast and Reliable Shipping

Through our dedicated joint venture company (owned and controlled by Manico AB and our OEM manufacturing plant in China), we have mutually secured efficient and reliable shipping and logistical procedures, reasonable levels of stock in Sweden and a strong level of support and maintenance.

Support

We have a high level of knowledge and experience from many different interactive products, applications and software, enabling us to successfully recommend solutions that work best for each individual customer's requirements. We are continuously upgrading our assortment with new applications and accessories that enhance the interactive working experience and efficiency. We have several alternative solutions for connecting to, networks, internet, multiple systems, mobile units etc.

Maintenance and Warrantee

We offer a three year onsite full warrantee for all Manico Touchscreens (47", 55", 65", 70" and 84"). Said warrantee can be extended to five years. All warrantee cases are handled by Manico AB or local dealers authorized and certified by Manico AB.

Cutting Edge

Close partnerships and mutual development projects together with cutting edge software developers of products for education, 3D presentation tools, administration systems, video conferencing etc. cements our leading position, and enables us to continue being one step ahead.
