

Never forget

Through the ages
winds brought changes and the memories will never fade away Along these halls
and within these walls
they'll forever be written in stone, this was their home

Even though we have to go
we will never forget this night
Yes our minds will change in time
but we will never give up this fight

Through the ages
many fought for changes and their fight will always be remembered Along these halls
their names will be written in stone
this was their home

Even though we have to go
we will never forget this night
Yes our minds will change in time
but we will never give up this fight
Never give up this fight

Now it's time with new winds to ride and find a place - to call our home

Even though we have to go
we will never forget this night

we will never forget this night
Yes our minds will change in time
we will never give up this fight

Never give up this fight
Never forget this night
Oh no never give up this fight

Beautiful as a palace you stand Now we say goodbye to our holy land
