3. If the personal data are no longer necessary for the purpose for which they were collected, but you need them in order to establish, exercise or defend legal claims, or
4. If you have objected to a balance of interests that we have made as a legal basis for processing, you may request that your information should be limited for the time needed to verify whether our legitimate interest override your legitimate interest.

Right to data portability

If we process your personal data based on your consent or performance of a contract, you have the right to request that the information you have provided to us should be transferred to another personal data controller, if this is technically possible and can be automated.

Right to object

Balancing of interests

You are able to object to the processing of your personal data based on a balance of interests. In this case, we cannot continue to process the data if we cannot demonstrate compelling legitimate grounds that outweigh your interests, rights and freedoms, or if it is for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims.

Direct Marketing

You have the right to object to your personal information being used for direct marketing purposes. Where an objection to direct marketing has been made, the information may no longer be processed for such purposes.

Right to complain to the supervisory authority

The Data inspection authority is the regulator and is responsible for monitoring the compliance of the GDPR. If you believe that your personal information is handled in an incorrect manner, you have the possibility to submit a complaint to the data www.datainspektionen.se.

Third Party Add-Ons

You may choose to make use of third party Add-Ons in conjunction with Bricknode Products. Third party Add-Ons are software written by third parties to which you grant access privileges to your Content (which may include your Personal Information). When access is granted, your Content is shared with the third party. Third party Add-On policies and procedures are not controlled by Bricknode even though the third party Add-On may be available through Bricknode Products. Third parties who have been granted access to your Content through Add-Ons could use this data to contact you and market services to you and could share your data with other third parties. This Privacy Policy does not cover the collection or use of your data by third party Add-Ons, and we urge you to consider the privacy policies governing third party Add-Ons. If you object to your Personal Information being shared with these third parties, please uninstall the Add-On (in the event installed from the Bricknode Marketplace) or terminate your agreement with the third party Add-On provider (in the event you have purchased a direct integration).

Collaboration

As a natural result of using Bricknode Products, you may create Content and grant permission to other Bricknode users to access it for the purposes of collaboration. Some of the collaboration features of Bricknode Products display your profile information, including Personal Information included in your profile, to users with whom you have shared your Content. Where this information is sensitive, we urge you to use the various security and privacy features of the Bricknode Products to limit those who can access such information. Your sharing settings may make any Information, including some Personal Information, that you submit to the Bricknode Products visible to the public, unless submitted to a restricted area.

Bricknode Community

Our Websites offer publicly accessible community services such as blogs, forums, bug trackers, and wikis. You should be aware that any Content you provide in these areas may be read, collected, and used by others who access them. Your posts may remain even after you cancel your account. To request removal of your Personal Information from the Bricknode Community, please contact us using the information listed below.
