

About Voice Integrate

Voice Integrate is a privately owned company that was founded at the end of 2008. We have our office in Kista, the IT hub in Sweden.

Voice Integrate has developed and runs a "communications factory" where we gather the best applications together with the best hardware and package everything for the requirements that companies have today and may need for tomorrow.

Our customers are primarily service providers with their own End Users as well as larger companies and organizations that want a complex range of services and integration.

Our customized services are offered to end users via Partners and resellers, who can take advantage of our complete range of high-tech communication services together with homogeneously integrated tools.

Voice Integrate is a licensed Swedish telecom operator and our systems are located in secure data centers both in Sweden and abroad to be able to offer our services in all corners of the world.

We work with fiber providers, internet providers, telecom operators, number operators, data centers, software providers and have several redundant connections to our various technical and administrative systems.
